"VOCATIONAL-INDUSTRIAL"— the words inscribed in stone above Central's door— reflect the specialization in our curriculum. Ours is a school where we find subjects relative to our own talents and interests. Central offers the college preparatory, business, industrial, and general courses in order to graduate future homemakers, professional men and women, business executives, office employees, industrial workers, and other useful citizens. Central has contributed heavily to Fort Wayne's progress by graduating workers in all fields of endeavor.

Homemaking Is

HOME TRAINING courses at Central serve to improve homes in Fort Wayne. Home management and family relations courses are offered to prepare students for future home life. Sociology is given in an

THE SPIRIT OF CENTRAL is preserved by the student who possesses initiative and ambition. The spirit of the student also grows because he feels he is helping his school and community. Honors received throughout the school year and on Recognition Day are the results of many hours of service contributed to Central by the well-deserving student. Scholarships, letters, pins, speech awards, and cups are honors which willing Central pupils win. The students who serve Central today will lead Fort Wayne tomorrow.

OUTSTANDING football and basketball players receive letter sweaters for their tried and true efforts in the field of sports. Each sweater and each letter is a symbol of service to Central. Each of the 21 lettermen here pictured has earned his honor on the field or on the court — setting an example of service for the student body. To win a "C" sweater is a challenge to every sports-minded Centralite.

In Groups We Serve

CENTRAL'S active student, finding pleasure in doing more than he has to do, expresses himself in our service groups. In our clubs we "learn by doing." Our seniors will soon take their places in the City with intention of being "good citizens" and will be just that, because of the fundamental practices gained in our clubs.

Gathering in groups enables young citizens to understand one another, gain experience in leadership, and exercise those rights to which they as citizens are entitled. The "spirit of Central," expressed in our clubs, thus becomes the "spirit of Fort Wayne."

We Made This Book

"EVERYBODY Buys a Caldron" proved the successful slogan which enabled the Caldron, Central's yearbook, to set a new sales record of 1518 subscriptions this year.

The Caldron this year shows in pictures how Central helps Fort Wayne. The Caldron serves as a public relations medium through which Fort Wayne citizens may become better acquainted with our school. The Caldron, with the aid of club and organization pledges, is a self-supporting institution boasting its own office, studio, and dark room. The pictures, with the exception of conventional portraits, are made by pupil photographers.

The Caldron stages an annual dance, Poor Man's Prom, and this year held a joint dance with the Booster Club.

Student Council

STUDENT COUNCIL has worked toward the betterment of Central by sponsoring a campaign in keeping the cafeteria and halls clean. The club has also provided a suggestion box in center hall and set aside an annual Courtesy Week. A dance is given each year to raise funds. Mr. Willis Richardson is the adviser.

Our Boosters Plan

CENTRAL boasts an unusual Booster Club, for they defy tradition and do things with an original twist. The banquet, held at the English Terrace, was quite elaborate. The Valentine Pep Session was also distinctly different. In addition, this year Central Boosters played host at the Sectionals, which were held at both North and South Side, and at the Regionals. The annual Tiger Hop and the Mixer, given in honor of the basketball and the football teams, were also colorful.

Anthony Wayne

TRIPS to historical places and a Sadie Hawkins Day dance highlighted the Anthony Wayne Club 1947-48 calendar. Founded in 1946 by Mr. Clifford Richards, the club promotes a better understanding of government and an appreciation of historical places in our nation. A semester of social science is required for membership in Anthony Wayne.

National Forensic League

THIS YEAR NFL members were caught in a whirl of activities. Speech trips were made to Purdue University for the annual debate conference, Peru for a miscellaneous speech meet, and Terre Haute for the state NFL tourney. The purpose of the National Forensic League is to recognize students who have excelled in public speaking. Only students having the number of required points are eligible for membership in this national honorary organization.

Press Club

PRESS Club, guided by Mr. Cleon Fleck, promotes interest in publications and honors deserving staff workers. Meetings are held once a month as 6 o'clock supper sessions. Highlighting the year's calendar were the traditional hayride and the Christmas party. Qualifications for membership are 3,000 points for Spotlight members and recommendation of the editor, the manager, and the adviser for Caldron members.

Ready for Friday

THE TASK of writing and editing 360 to 480 column inches of the printed word each week falls upon the Spotlight editorial staff of 50. After stories are assigned, reporters gather facts, editors check the dummy, the desk staff write the heads, copyreaders check facts, and staff photographers make the pictures. From their work, members learn not only journalism, but also leadership, poise, and dependability.

CENTRAL'S physical education program helps build a better Fort Wayne by promoting recreation, appreciation for sports, and better health for all. Literally thousands of pupils and fans gain emotional "lift" at our football and basketball games. All pupils, through gym class efforts and game attendance, learn the joy of athletics and the life-long love of games. More important are the study of health and the building of health, both in formal class work and in physical training work. Even after school this program continues in the form of girls athletics, intramural play, and inter-school competition.

Health Comes First

The teaching and the practice of health in our school play a major role in the lives of our students now and in the future. Var-

Good Sports, the

CENTRAL'S Girls Athletic Association, guided by Miss Lenna Arnold, this year marks its 23rd year with Central and has once again stimulated much enthusiasm and sportsmanship among its members. An outstanding feature of this club is that it provides a meeting place for girls after school in which they can establish many cherished friendships. Business meetings are held on the third Wednesday of each month, sports events on week nights except Friday. Among the traditional events of this club are a dance, the annual Christmas party, the GAA banquet, and the girls gym exhibition. At the banquet trophies are awarded and the officers for the following year are announced. Among the various sports in which the girls take part are volleyball, speedball, swimming, tap, tumbling, basketball, and softball. As in 1946, Central's gridders had an encouraging as well as discouraging season. The Bengal Banetmen battered many top-rate gridiron teams in the early part of the season and appeared to be headed for city football laurels, when suddenly setback after setback hit the Tigers and city series hopes vanished. After blasting the North Side Redskins the Tigers city competition just proved too tough, and they lost to C. C. and South Side.

Returning next fall will be many lettermen who proved this season their outstanding capacity to play. Among

All Boys Play

ALL BOYS at Central use the gym, in physical education classes, in after-school intramural games, or both. All boys enroll in gym classes for all four years. Boys who like competitive games enter intramural basketball after school. About 200 boys, freshmen to seniors, form volunteer teams and sign with Mr. Lester Williams, director. RESERVE SQUAD

Outscoring opponents 1,211 to 988, Central experienced a victorious basketball season this year. Although the schedule listed some of Indiana's best quintets, the Banetmen racked up 15 wins in 20 starts, including a New Year tourney. The Tigers' shining achievement of the year was copping the Fort Wayne hardwood crown—battering North Side twice, Central Catholic and Concordia once each, and splitting with South Side Archers. What might have been an "on to state" year was upset by a loss to Monroeville, the surprise team of a decade, in the Sectional finals.

VARSITY TEAM

Fast Action

Every hardwood game this year was replete with sparkling action, both in offense and defense.

CENTRAL'S thinly clads had only a moderately successful season in 1947. Participating in 12 meets, the most important result seemed to be experience. The tracksters won all three of their meets against Concordia, Bluffton, and Garrett, but failed in the numerous relays and triangular events. Placing only fourth in the City meet, the Blue managed to send but two, John Bright and Ralph Hayes, to State on May 24, after sectional elimination.

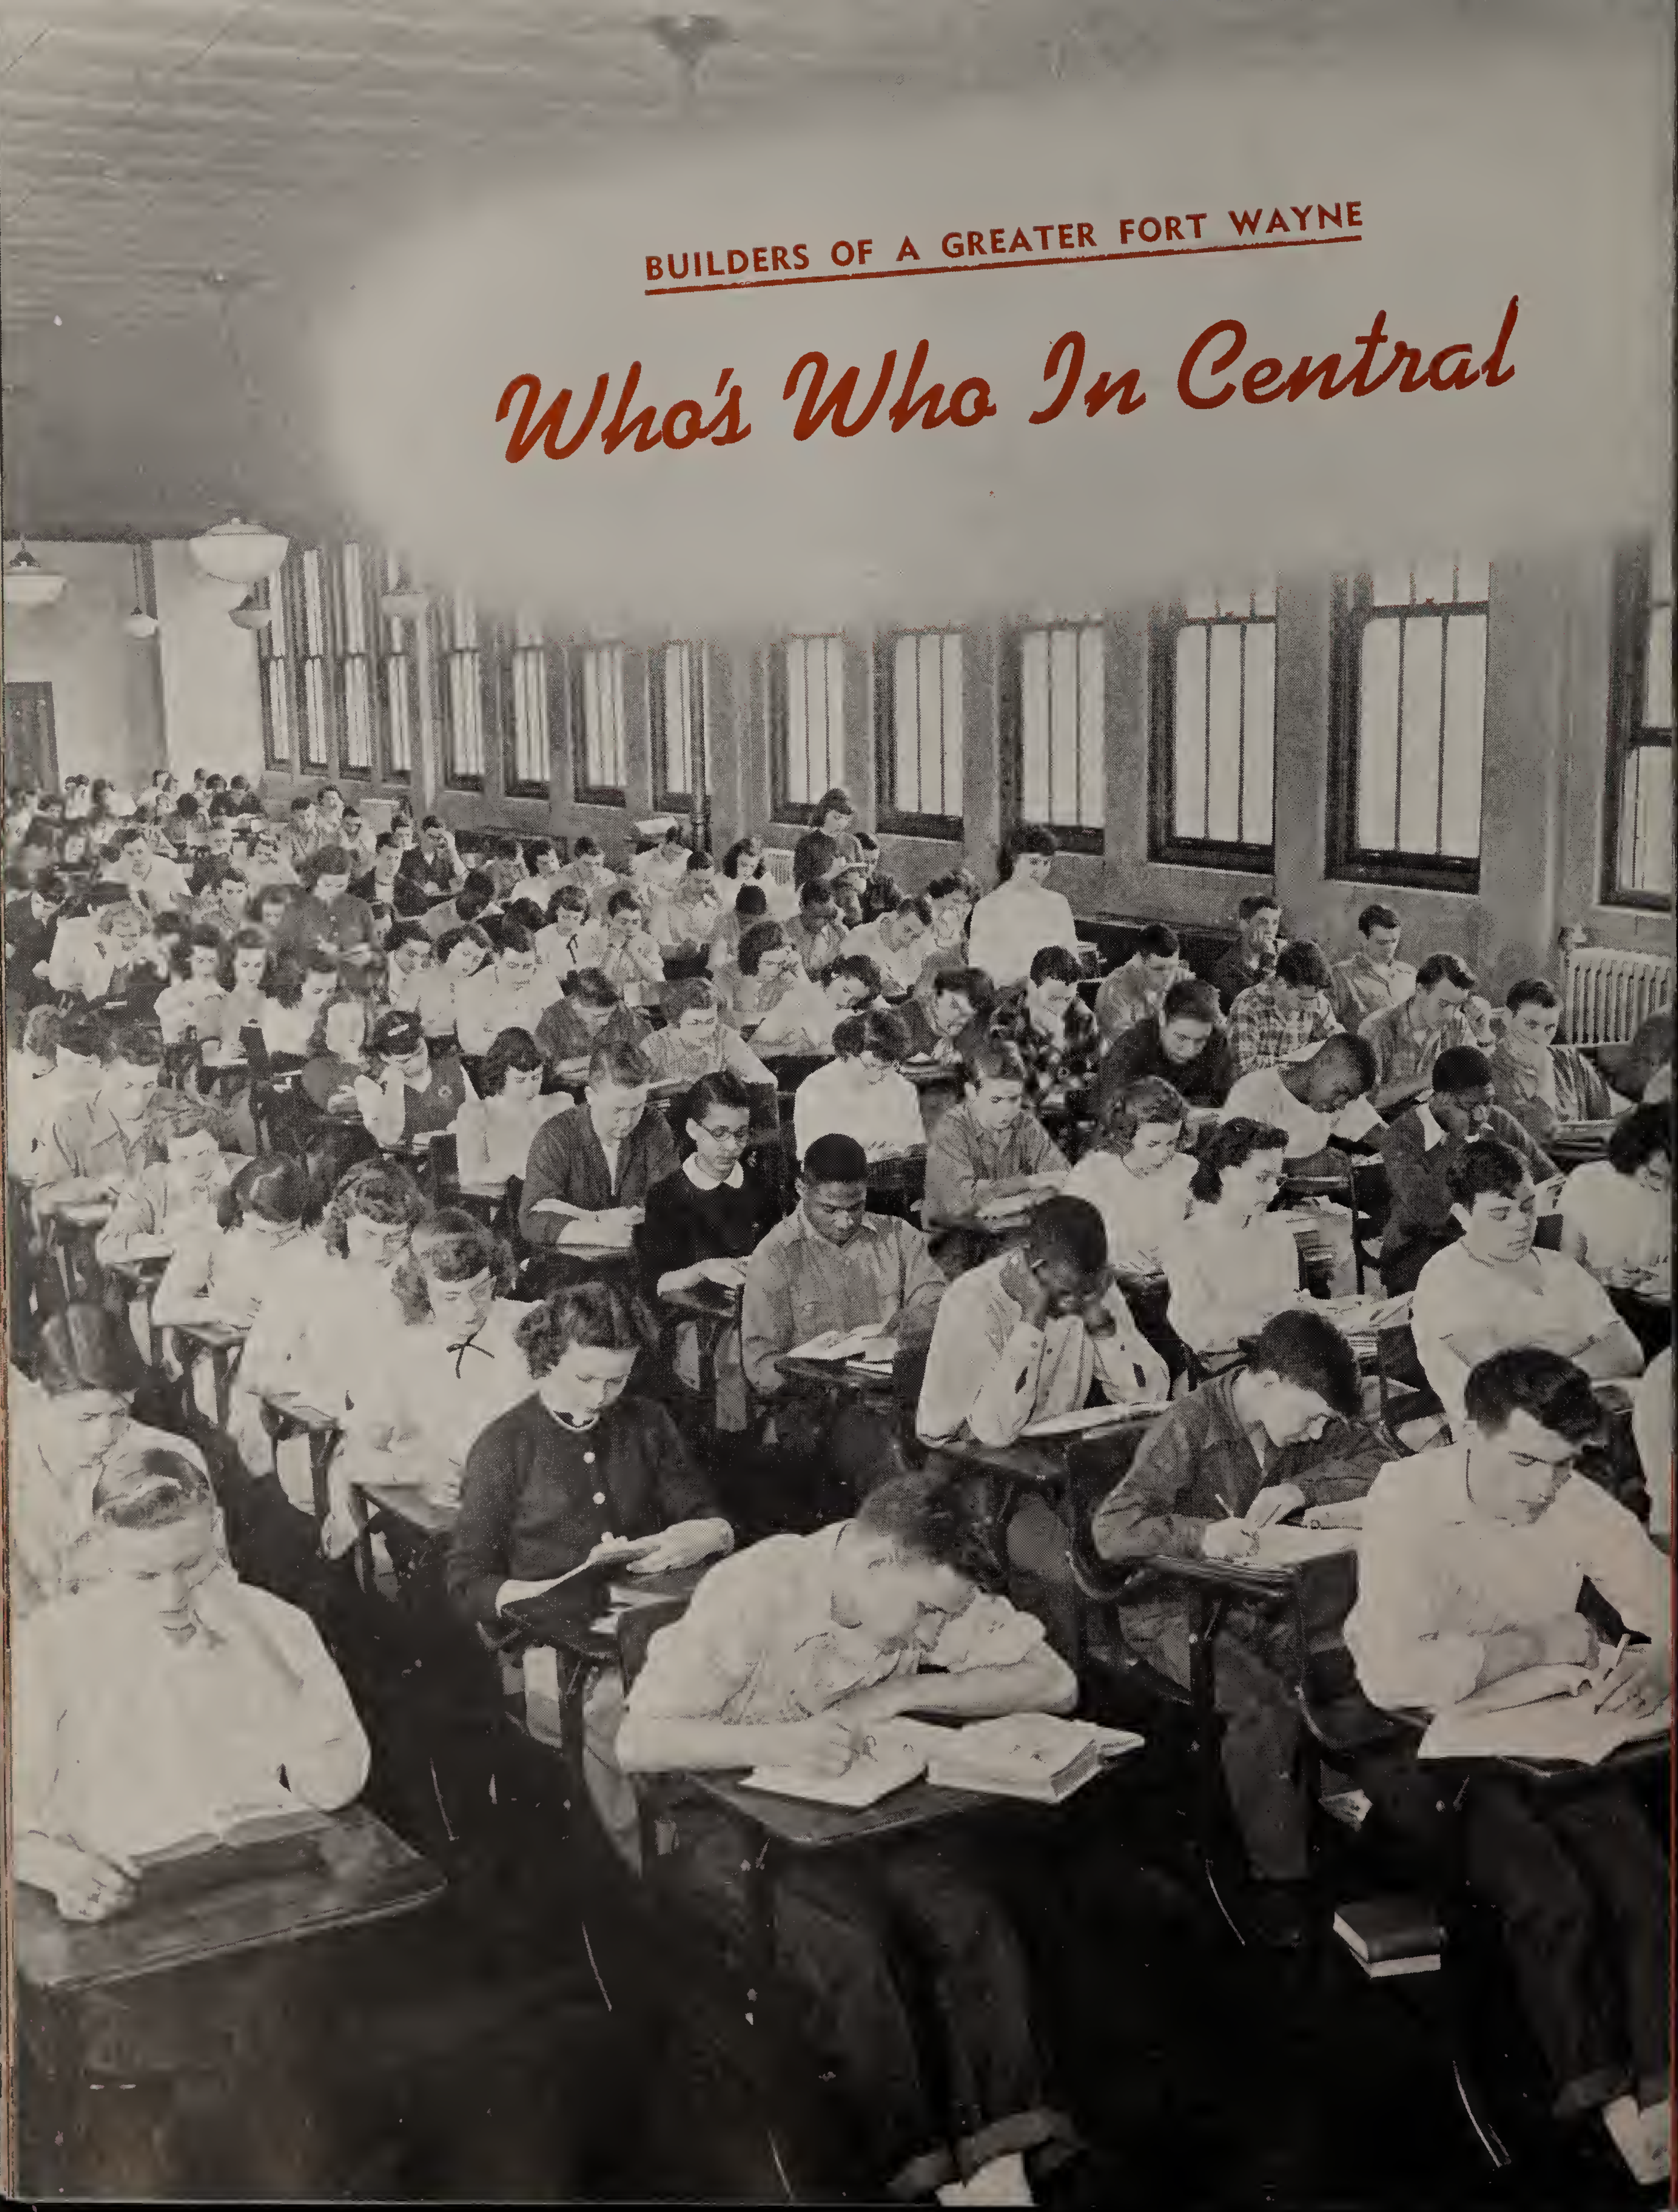
City Champions

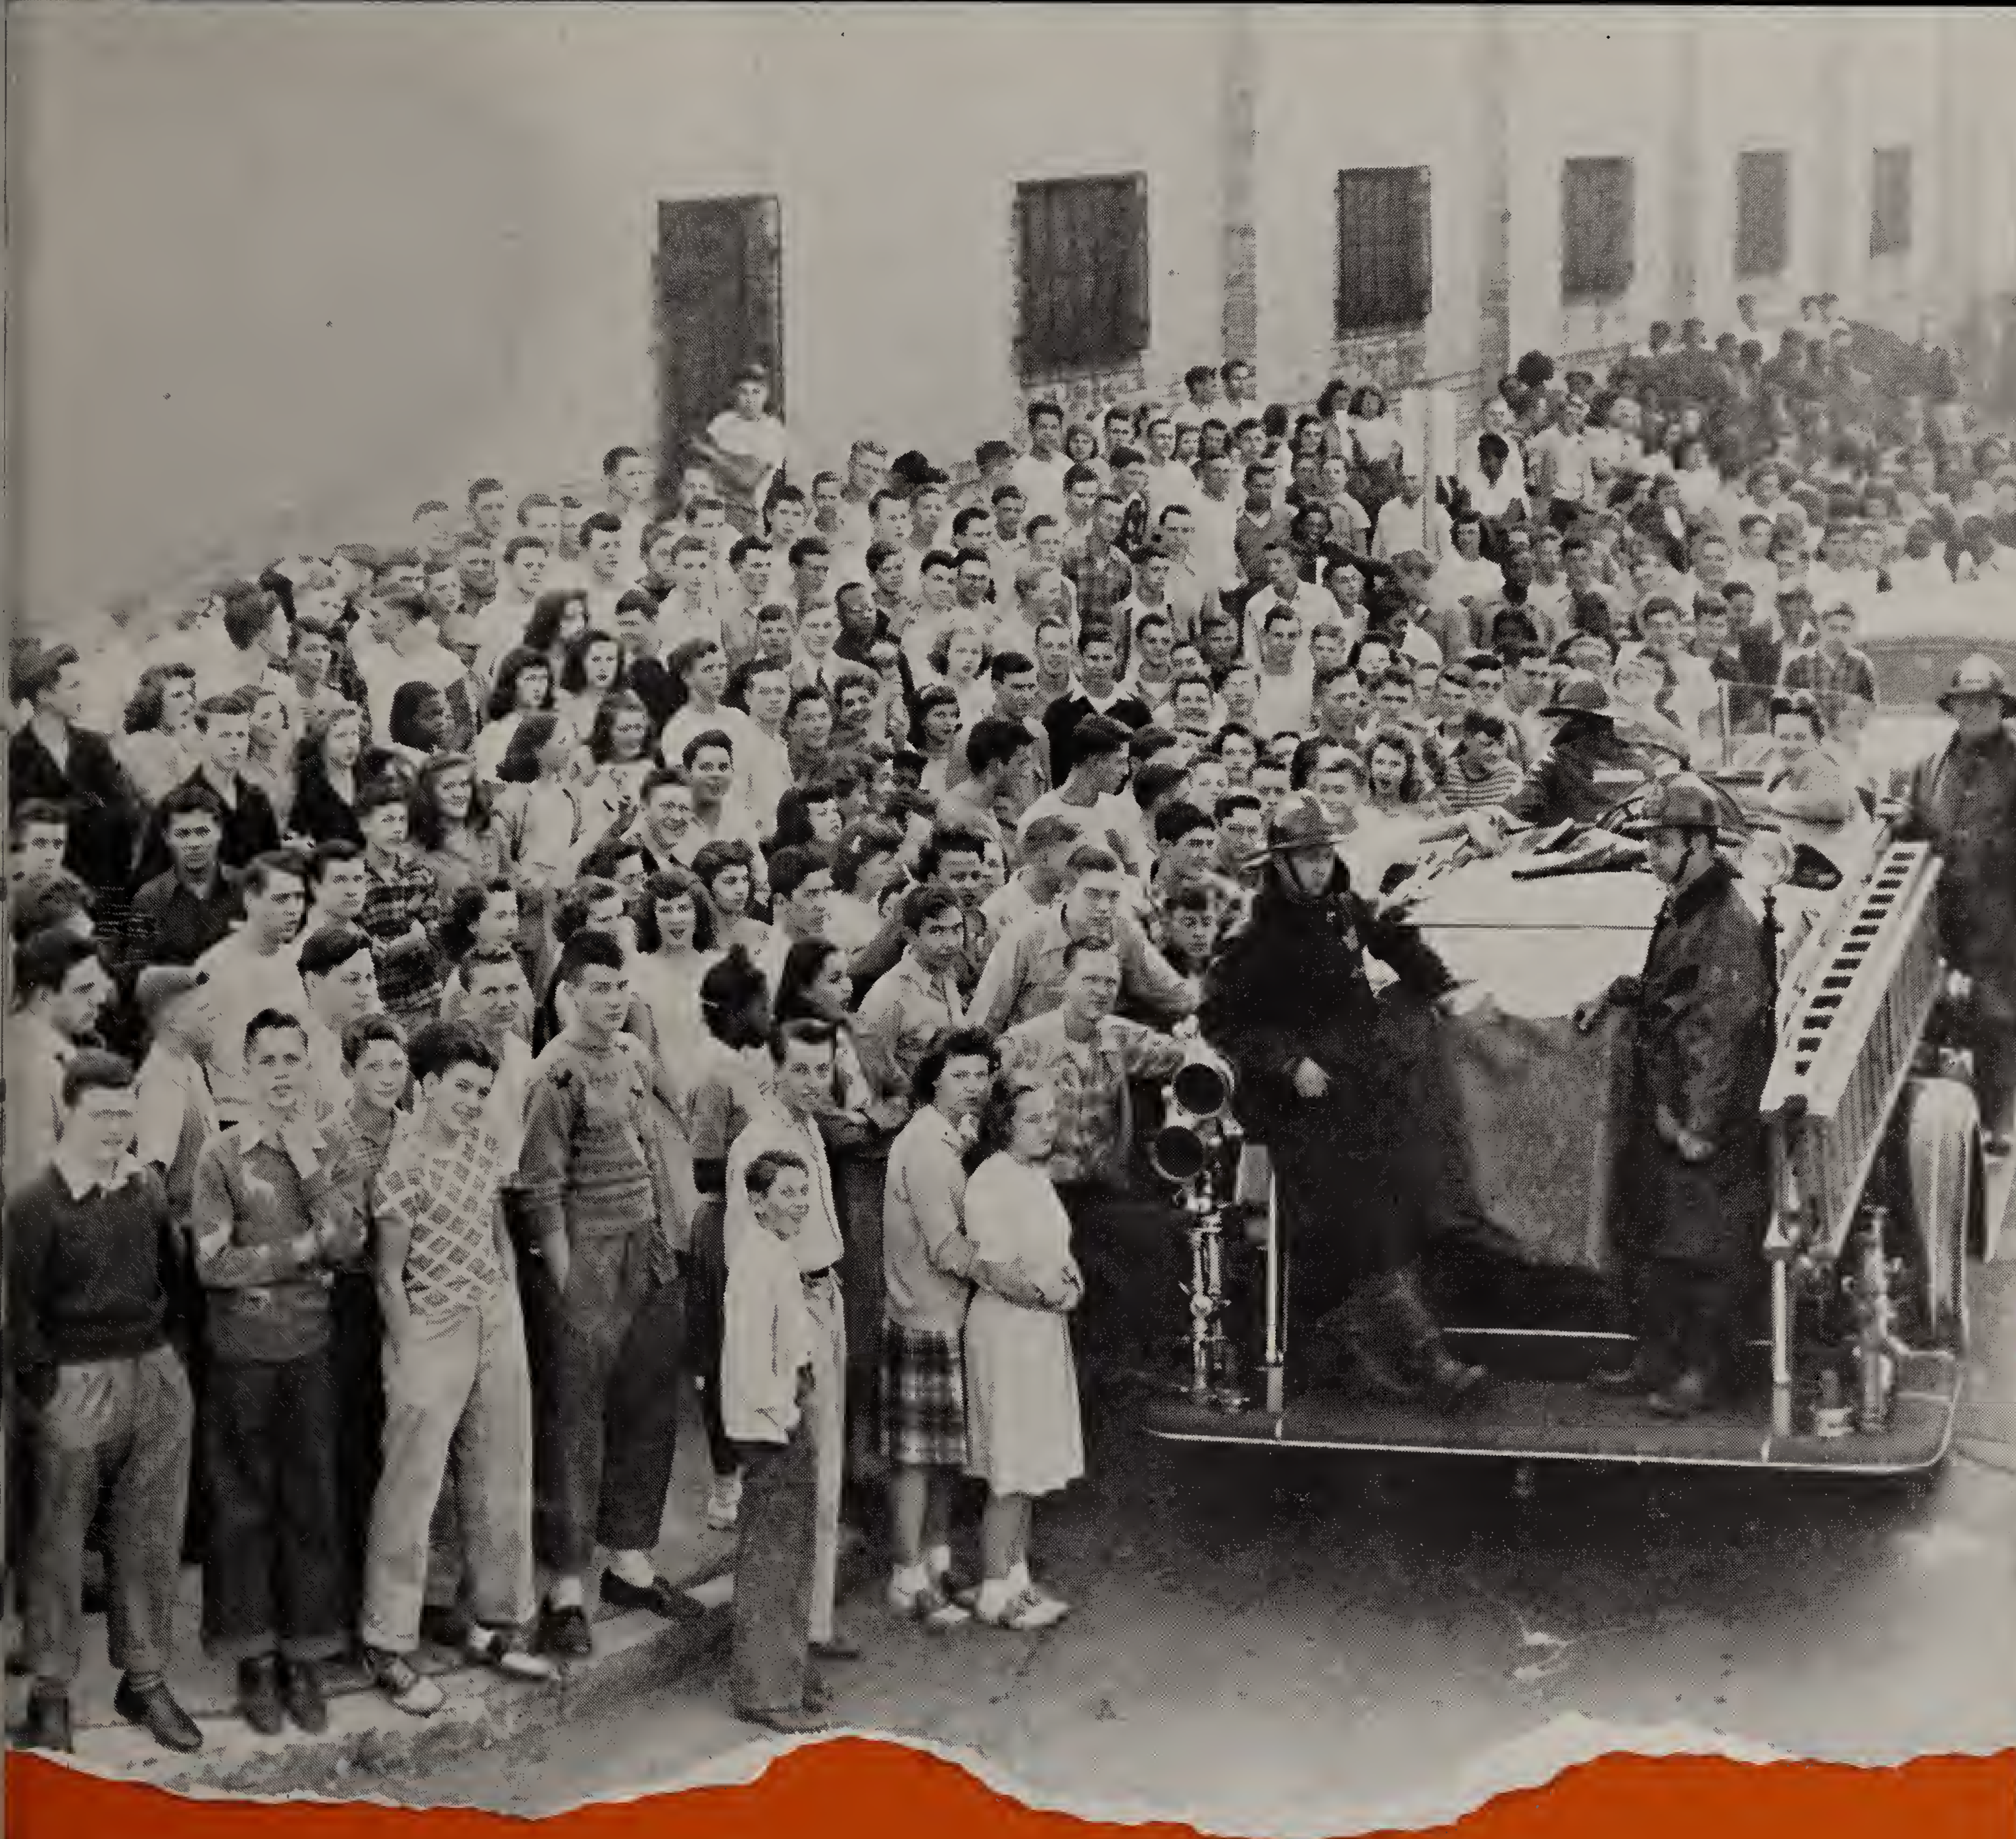
THE THRILL of beating South Side and winning the City Series sent Central cheers ringing.

RIGHT: The crowd goes wild when Central scores her first basket against South Side, February 7. ABOVE: The game's over and everybody's happy! Central 40, South Side 35.

BUILDERS OF A GREATER FORT WAYNE

Who's Who In Central





LEFT: Hundreds study in Miss Heal's study hall, first hour, Room 245. ABOVE: This crowd of Centralites observes fire equipment at the area-wide fire drill October 9, during Fire Prevention Week.

MEET THE FUTURE homemakers, professional men and women, business executives, office employees, industrial workers, and other useful citizens of Fort Wayne. Yes, here they are — 1,800 of them — short, tall, stout, lean, from freshmen to seniors, and the adults who direct — working together to promote a better Fort Wayne. Centralites of varied families, creeds, and races meet on the same level with a single purpose — to become better citizens through education. Democracy is not a mere word at Central — it is a reality. Central serves Fort Wayne by setting a practical example of living brotherhood.

MERLE J. ABBETT. Superintendent of Schools. Franklin College, A.B.; Columbia University, A.M. Came to Fort Wayne in February, 1932. Here Mr. Abbett greets Dean Ford P. Hall in a meeting of businessmen and educators at Indiana University Extension Center.

Our Superintendent

THESE, your schools and this, our community — both are concerned with the well-being of youth, each serving the other. The real basis for an excellent school is the community; in like manner, the school serves, by its training of youth, to build a forward-looking city. Our school leaders will soon be our civic leaders. Central can well be proud of its hundreds who, as alumni, now hold positions of trust in Fort Wayne.

Merle J Abbett

Our Dean of Boys

EVERY student who leaves Central's portals with a broader vision of his responsibility to his neighbors is an asset to his community. Just as you have entered into activities in school, so the community beckons you to keep on living—through the Red Cross, Community Chest, YMCA and YWCA. You will begin to prove a cultural background as soon as you find an opportunity to live for others.

Ralph O Virts.

RALPH O. VIRTS. Dean of Boys, Head of Mathematics, Hi-Y Sponsor. Indiana University, A.B. and M.A. Came to Central in 1927. Here he broadcasts over WGL on a topic of home-school interest.

Our Principal

THE COMMUNITY could not get along well without the school, and, of course, the school needs the community for its support. They must work together for the welfare of the children in the community. You hear of good communities, bad communities, communities of culture and refinement, communities that are progressive or static. The school has a lot to do with these conditions. A wide-awake school with good teachers and up-to-date methods, books and equipment can make the community the way they want it to be.

Fred H. Croninger

FRED H. CRONINGER. Principal. Heidelberg College, B.A.; Columbia University, A.M. Came to Central in 1913. Here Mr. Croninger makes friends for Central at the Lions Club luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce.

MERIBAH INGHAM. Dean of Girls. Battle Creek College, A.B.; Indiana University, M.S. Came to Central in 1930. Here Miss Ingham attends a P-TA luncheon at the Arnold Benecke home, 1306 Lewis Street.

Our Dean of Girls

CENTRAL High School serves Fort Wayne in many ways. The building itself is in constant use by civic groups. Its teachers take active part in clubs and organizations of the community, serving on committees and contributing much that is worth-while. Central students, too, contribute by giving of their time and talents for the enjoyment of others, as they furnish music and speakers for meetings, take part on radio programs, and work on drives to help others. Central serves her community well.

Meribah Ingham

They Counsel Us

WE CENTRALITES are extremely fortunate in being able to bring our problems to patient and understanding teachers, guidance and counseling directors. They are always willing to lend a helping hand so long as we are earnest and straightforward in approaching them. We feel grateful for their competent assistance, and they in turn are pleased to know that we respect their opinions and judgment.

Personal problems are not, however, the only problems they help us solve. Miss Mildred Brigham, the head of our guidance department, is ever ready to assist us with programs, credits, college choices, or anything else that applies to school and its complexities. Our dean of girls, Miss Meribah Ingham, is everyone's friend, but she especially gives her helpful criticism, as well as deserving praise, to the girls of Central. Another member of our guidance department is Mrs. Grisell, our visiting teacher. She takes our problems as seriously as those of her own and is truly helpful to those who seek her opinion.

Mr. R. O. Virts, dean of boys, assists in many problems concerning school and outside activities. Also aiding are Miss Emma Adams and Mrs. Celia Winter. Miss Adams makes many programs and aids students in improving their schedules. Mrs. Winter counsels those who need guidance in regard to attendance.

Yes, Centralites need never lack guidance—and we will not, for Central's faculty intend to do all they can to help direct Central students into suitable fields, thus making useful citizens for Fort Wayne.

Mothers and Fathers Visit Central High School

"PREPARATION for Living" was the theme of the 1947-48 Central Parent-Teachers Association, in keeping with the four-point national theme: School Education, Health, World Understanding, and Parent and Family Education. The first meeting, "Reflections of Camp Life," was given by students who attended Camp Minnewanca, Shelby, Michigan for leadership training. Films, speakers, and panel discussions featured the remaining programs. The P-TA held a card party, a cake walk, the Leap Year Dance, and another dance to replenish the Gold Star Memorial Treasury.

Shaping Our Lives

CENTRAL
STATE CHAMPS 1943

Sanctus Sanc

LEFT: Central's choir and orchestra sing and play "Silent Night" in center hall. ABOVE: Mrs. Porter's 5X English class hears Father Zimmerman explain architecture and culture reflected in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception.

CENTRAL shapes our individual lives through the development of character, culture, and the social graces. We develop character, for example, through the influence of teachers, inspiring speeches, club initiations, and the Bible scripture read by Mr. Croninger over the public address system. The culture that we acquire through literature, music, and art is a definite asset the rest of our lives. Taking part in the plays, parties, banquets, and proms aids us in developing social grace and poise. Upon our graduation from Central we should be accepted in the community as happy, well-adjusted citizens.

Central Teaches Character

UNLIKE algebra or English, character instruction has no fixed hour in the day, no special teachers, and no grade on the report card. Character is taught in class, between classes, and after school, in both formal and informal situations. An inspiring piece of literature, an inspiring address by a civic leader, an initiation ritual — all teach character.

LEFT: Mr. Robert S. Peorson, chairman of the Crime Prevention Campaign, from the Exchange Club, introduces Chief Lester Eisenhut, of the Fort Wayne Police Department, over the public address system. Chief Eisenhut spoke on crime prevention in relation to high school students.

RIGHT: Mr. Fred H. Craninger, principal, reads from the Bible to the entire high school on a Monday morning.

Every Hour of Every Day

An editorship, a basketball captaincy, a club presidency all teach responsible action. We must think of character training not as a by-product but as a primary aim in education at Central for the betterment of Fort Wayne. Certainly there is no greater purpose in our school program.

RIGHT: Taking part in a Quill and Scroll Club formal initiation are Edna Lyons, Barbara Brittin, Martha Ellen Hanes, Myra Matthias, Paul Cunegin, Dick Clark, Patty Aldred, Louann Daugherty, Connie Felts, Marian Walda, and Katie Hinkle. The seven points of Quill and Scrall which represent ideals of character are emphasized in the initiation.

RIGHT: The Music Council meets to arrange for a special cancert. As they are in charge af all plans for the music department, they gain a sense af respansibility and ingenuity. Members are Shirley Bickfard, Betty Pflueger, Don Miller, Paul Cunegin, Lais Hanes, Erwin Mueller, and Mr. Bailhe.

Central Reveals Cultural

ANOTHER of Central's chief aims is to instill in each student a life-time love of culture. As with character, there is no scheduled class in culture on our programs, but nevertheless we are taught culture in and out of class. In the curriculum we have art, music, and literature, for example; biology is also a cultural subject as it teaches us to see beauty in nature. In activities we have Delvers, Friendship, Hi-Y, and others. We have plays, good books, concerts—and other features at Central of a cultural nature.

LEFT: Kathleen Kagey, Winnie Potton, Gwen Penrose, Joy Beare, Joanne Baldwin, and Louann Daugherty take part in the Christmas play of which the setting was a cultured home. By taking part in the play, these students gain a life-long appreciation for dramatics.

LEFT: It is in the cultural atmosphere of the library that students delve beneath the surface of subjects discussed in their classes. In seeking out the truth, students gain cultural background in literature, history, current affairs — in any and all fields.

Heritage in Class and Out

LEFT: Miss Acker points out the fine artistic points of this still life painting to Students Barbara Feasel, John Blanks, and Patty Wagner. An understanding of art and practice in creative art develop ability to appreciate the world of beauty.

LEFT: Mrs. Porter's 5x English class listens to a report by Shirley Bickford on England of the Elizabethan period, relative to their study of Shakespeare. Love of literature is a lifetime cultural asset.

'L'Eau Enchantee'

THE 1947 JUNIOR PROM, L'Eau Enchantee, was unusually beautiful and truly unique. The decorations were carried out in an enchanting under-water theme and created the illusion of dancing in Neptune's Kingdom.

Members of the junior class worked diligently to make their prom memorable in a year of social events. Everyone will remember the beautiful L'Eau Enchantee!

Jackie Harding, queen of the 1947 Junior Prom, reigns on her nautical throne.

EVENTS

Life at Central

CENTRALITES have come to look forward to certain special events whose originality provides merriment for all. Such events as take place in Central help us realize and appreciate the talents of our fellow students. It is through these events that students are brought together and given the opportunity to develop their personalities by making new friends and renewing old friendships.

TIN CAN ALLEY

RIGHT, TOP: Ned Brenizer leaves the cafeteria after being crowned "kween" of the Caldron's Poor Man's Prom, Tin Can Alley, April 19, 1947. School Calendar

EVENTS at Central cultivate good characteristics in our students. As many outside visitors attend Central for special programs, the students develop their personalities so as to welcome these guests with gratitude. These special assemblies, adding zest and much educational entertainment to our school life, bring our students closer together.

Busy People, Our Seniors!

The Banquet, the Senior Play, the Commencement Dance, Baccalaureate, and last of all, Commencement are but a few of those senior events filling a fast-moving year. Here are seniors in action.

At Home on the Stage!

"Our Town," Pulitzer prize-winning play given by our seniors, highlighted the 1947-48 dramatic season. Other plays of importance were the senior one-acts and the junior Christmas play.
